

To: M.r Ahmad Shahid
Special Rapporteur on the human rights situation in Iran

Dear Sir,

Iranian student's movement has always been one of the most active social strata in pursuing their rights such as equal rights to education for everyone, preventing the dismissal and forced retirements of dissident university professors, right of research without limitations in universities and to sum up expansion of academic liberties. Student activists have also been pursuing basic rights of the people such as freedom of speech, press, and rallies, free formation and function of parties, syndicates, civil associations and also regard of democratic principles in the political structure for many years.

But unfortunately the regime has rarely been friendly towards students. They have always tried to force restrictions on student movement's critical activities by threats, temporary or permanent suspension from education, banishments to universities in remote cities, arrests, prosecutions and heavy sentences of lashing, prison and even incarceration in banishment, all for peaceful and lawful pursuit of the previously mentioned demands. Demands which according to the human rights charter are considered the most basic rights of every human being and Islamic Republic of Iran as a subscriber is bound to uphold.

The government also attempts to shut down any student associations which are active in peaceful and lawful criticism, and their members are subjected to all sorts of pressures and restrictions to stop them. Islamic Associations for example which have over 60 years of history –almost twice as of the Islamic republic regime- and in recent years have been the only official criticizing student associations in universities, despite their massive number of student members, have been shut down by the government without any legal procedure. This has also happened to the Islamic associations' union (Tahkim Vahdat office) and their directing council members were arrested shortly after and face heavy prison sentences.

The university Deans who are appointed by the government are effective tools of suppression in universities and some of them are directly responsible for many accounts of students' and professors' rights violations and were insistent on enforcing these policies. Of these Deans who are cooperating closely with security forces in suppression of students, Dr. Alireza Rahayi, Dean of Amir Kabir university of technology, and Mr. Sadroddin Sharifi, Dean of Allameh Tabatabayi University can be named. They have also banned hundreds of student publications criticizing the regime.

But the regime did not stop there. Using the police and militia to directly suppress peaceful student rallies, they have repeatedly attacked and invaded university campuses and dorms by brutal beatings and gunshots which have caused the demise of several students. They have also torched dorm rooms and personal belongings of students, and arrested many. These attacks have been repeated similarly in the course of years before and after the recent presidential election, like the attacks on universities of Tehran, Technology of Isfahan, Azad of Mashhad, and several others. Although the regime officially condemns these attacks and promises the prosecution of the offenders, it is always the students who are found guilty of provoking the police or security forces and face prison or fines and the offenders are always exonerated.

Different reports of the uprisings after the 2009 elections suggest the death of many university students by the hands of security forces. A portion of these students such as Neda Agha Soltan, Mohammad Mokhtary, Sane'e Jaleh, and... were shot and killed in the streets during peaceful rallies, some were killed in jails under torture, like Mohsen Roohol Amini, Mohammad Kamrani and Amir Javadyfar, and some during the militia attacks in universities.

The government tries to violate academic liberties on different levels and transform the educational atmosphere of the universities according to their own ideology. Students or professors who do not follow the religions recognized by the regime, like Baha'is, will not be able to work or study in universities and if their belief is revealed at any course of their education, they will face expulsion.

Students also have to abide by the Islamic and government-regulated code of hijab, not to touch state red lines such as religion, the dominant ideology, criticism of government officials, general policies of the regime and etc in their researches and publications unless they confirm the official viewpoints. Critical teachers and those who refuse the dictated items will be retired or fired. Islamic republic of Iran is even trying to adopt the university texts with its ideology and limit students and professors to those texts.

Female students suffer double discrimination in Iran. The Government discriminates against them by different policies about entrance and education in universities because of its ideological viewpoint about women's role in the society. Women are banned from entering some majors and are forced to continue their education in their hometown (with their families) if possible. Government officials try to show that their aim is to consolidate families' foundations while the top ranking universities in Iran are very few, so the talented and qualified girls that deserve education in better universities are deprived of their right by these policies.

This lengthy and comprehensive report in front of you contains only the part of extensive violation of students' and academicians' rights that was published in news websites and media which a group of student activists could gather and it only covers events occurred after march 2009. We hope that this report can shed some more light on a small part of passions, difficulties and extensive violations of university teachers and students' rights for you and also hope that our joint efforts can finally lead to better observation of students, teachers and other social groups' rights in Iran.
